

Consent and Acknowledgement

By accessing this service, you acknowledge and agree that the information provided in this program is for information and discussion purposes only and is not a substitute for therapy, treatment, or professional advice obtained in the course of a doctor-patient relationship. The information in this program does not contain medical or psychological advice or treatment and should not be relied on for any diagnostic and treatment purposes.

The use of the program does not create a doctor-patient relationship between you and Dr. Vermani or any other individual who provides information as part of this program. The collection of any information is for identification purposes only and does not result in you becoming a patient of Dr. Vermani. Under no circumstances shall Dr. Vermani, her employees, agents, successors, or assigns, have any responsibility or liability to you for any damages, loss, or injury of any kind as a result of the reliance on the information in this program. Further, Dr. Vermani, her employees, agents, successors or assigns, shall have no responsibility or liability for the information or content of any third-party who may be mentioned or referred to in this program.

As mental health is a complex issue, this program cannot provide comprehensive information for every individual's particular circumstances. While the information is provided in good faith, we make no representation or warranty of any kind, express or implied, about the accuracy, adequacy, validity, reliability, availability or completeness of any information on this site or whether it is appropriate for your personal circumstances.

We encourage you to contact your doctor or an appropriate health care provider to obtain individualized advice and/or treatment prior to making health care decisions. If you feel that you have a medical or psychological emergency or are in crisis, visit your local emergency department or 911 immediately. Never disregard or delay medical or psychological advice and/or treatment based on information provided in this program.